

Cloud Source Open Access (CSOA) Quick Facts

What is an Open Access article?

An Open Access article is an academic publication that is available under a funding model that provides free full text access to the public.

What type of Open Access materials will I find in CSOA?

You will find high quality, peer-reviewed, academic articles covering a broad range of subject areas.

Book chapters, reports, proceedings, dissertations and open educational resources (OER) such as lesson plans, lectures, and lab activities are also available. Additional content is being added on a regular basis.

Where is it?

Any search in the Delaware Library Catalog will automatically generate results from the CSOA database. Results can be found in the Open Access Articles tab of the results page. Or use the drop down menu and select Open Access Articles.

IMPORTANT: Open Access Articles will not be available on in-library catalog computers.

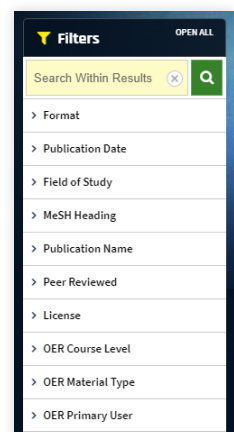

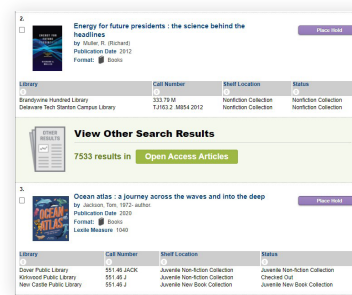

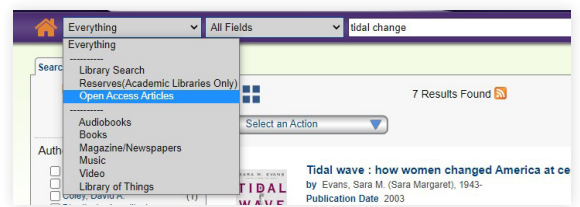

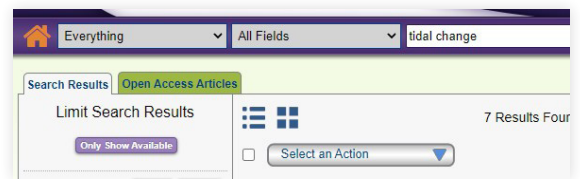

An Everything search will return a View Other Search Results box between the 2nd and 3rd results. This provides another access point to Open Access Articles.

Search filters are available to limit the result set

Options include Format, Publication date, Field of study, MeSH (Medical Subject Heading), Peer reviewed, OER material type, and other facets.

How do I get to the full text article?

Clicking on the View Resource button on the results page will open the article in full text format in a new window.

Who has access?

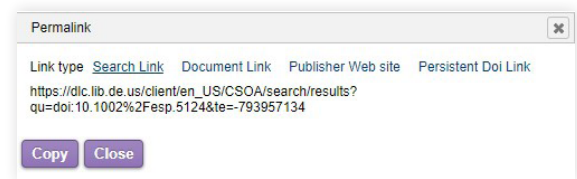

Full text articles are freely available. Patrons do not need a library card to access the content.

What does the Publisher Page button do ?

The Publisher Page button will open the article on the Publishers website in a new window.

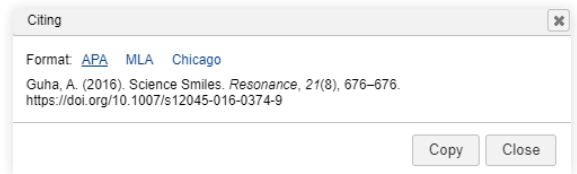

What does the Permalink button do?

The Permalink button will open a new box that contains the exact URL to that specific article. Patrons can select the link type and press the Copy button. This can be a beneficial feature that helps patrons keep track of resources they are interested in.

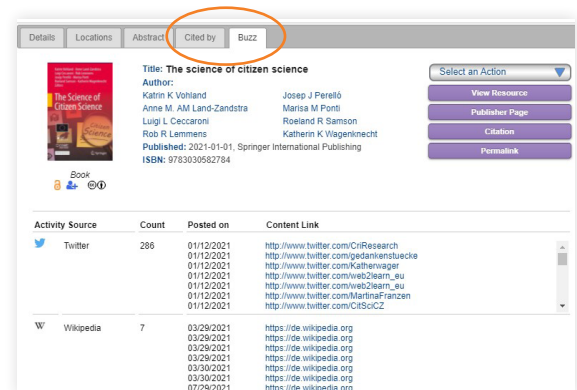

What citation formats are available?

Articles can be cited in the APA, MLA, or Chicago styles. The article citation will be displayed directly in the Citing box. Patrons simply click the formatting style they need. Note: it can take a few seconds for the citation to appear.

What do Cited by and Buzz mean?

Cited by is using metrics to look at works citing other work. This gives the searcher a number for how many times this article has been cited by other works. Buzz is measuring social media activity. Click on the article title to open a details box. Click the Buzz tab to see which sites have cited the article.
